JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (KCCP)

The Japanese Cabinet released the Development Cooperation Charter in June 2023, which stated, "In its development cooperation, Japan has maintained the spirit of jointly creating things that suit partner countries while respecting ownership, intentions and intrinsic characteristics of the country concerned based on a field-oriented approach through dialogue and collaboration. It has also maintained the approach of building reciprocal relationships with developing countries in which both sides learn from each other and grow and develop together." JICA believes that this 'Knowledge Co-Creation Program' will serve as a foundation of mutual learning process.

I. Concept

The Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group and Region Focus) in Counter International Terrorism will be jointly implemented by the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) and the National Police Agency (NPA) of Japan to establish close cooperation among participating countries and Japan to promote the prevention of international terrorism as part of the Government of Japan's official development assistance based on a bilateral agreement between both governments.

Background

Bringing Japan's Lessons to the Future of International Security

Kyrgyz Republic

Mr. ISMADIAROV Bekbolot

- Course : Counter International Terrorism
- Year of Participation : 2024
- Organization : Academy of the Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Kyrgyz Republic

Keywords : Police, Counter-terrorism

Before the Program

- Toward International-Standard Security Reform

As a police lieutenant colonel teaching international counter-terrorist financing at the Academy of the Ministry of Internal Affairs of Kyrgyzstan, I faced major challenges posed by the rapid rise of digital crime and the cross-border flow of terrorist funds. Feeling a strong need to reform our training in line with international standards, I was determined to learn Japan's advanced investigative methods.

During the Program - Respect and Discipline Revealed the True Essence of Counter-Terrorism

Through my visits to the National Police Agency of Japan and the Kyoto Prefectural Police, I gained a deep understanding of countermeasures against cyberattacks, methods for analyzing terrorist financing, and the importance of community-based policing. I was especially impressed by the discipline, non-judgmental attitude, and consistent respect shown by Japanese police officers. This experience fundamentally shifted my perspective, leading me to realize that effective counter-terrorism relies not only on force, but also on building trust and conducting precise data analysis.

After Returning Home

- Cross-Border Learning Builds the Future of Security

After returning, I shared the training with over 30 academy leaders and faculty and fully updated the teaching materials. I introduced a new module based on Japan's terrorist-financing analysis methods for more than 200 cadets and 150 students and held several seminars for police officers nationwide. These methods are now used in the field, driving reform in both education and practice and strengthening national security capabilities.

For Your Reference

JICA and Capacity Development

Technical cooperation is people-to-people cooperation that supports partner countries in enhancing their comprehensive capacities to address development challenges by their own efforts. Instead of applying Japanese technology per se to partner countries, JICA's technical cooperation provides solutions that best fit their needs by working with people living there. In the process, consideration is given to factors such as their regional characteristics, historical background, and languages. JICA does not limit its technical cooperation to human resources development; it offers multi-tiered assistance that also involves organizational strengthening, policy formulation, and institution building.

Implementation methods of JICA's technical cooperation can be divided into two approaches. One is overseas cooperation by dispatching experts and volunteers in various development sectors to partner countries; the other is domestic cooperation by inviting participants from developing countries to Japan. The latter method is the Knowledge Co-Creation Program, formerly called Training Program, and it is one of the core programs carried out in Japan. By inviting officials from partner countries and with cooperation from domestic partners, the Knowledge Co-Creation Program provides technical knowledge and practical solutions for development issues in participating countries.

The Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus) has long occupied an important place in JICA operations. About 400 pre-organized courses cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs is being customized by the different target organizations to address the specific needs, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan, as the first non-Western nation to become a developed country, built itself into a country that is free, peaceful, prosperous and democratic while preserving its tradition. Japan will serve as one of the best examples for our partner countries to follow in their own development.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from a process of adoption and adaptation, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories.

Through Japan's progressive adaptation and application of systems, methods and technologies from the West in a way that is suited to its own circumstances, Japan has developed a storehouse of knowledge not found elsewhere from unique systems of organization, administration and personnel management to such social systems as the livelihood improvement approach and governmental organization. It is not easy to apply such experiences to other countries where the circumstances differ, but the experiences can provide ideas and clues useful when devising measures to solve problems.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.

National Police Agency (NPA) of Japan

Police responsibilities under the Police Act include "protecting life, person, and property; preventing, suppressing, and investigating crimes; apprehending suspects; traffic enforcement; and, maintaining public safety and order."

The Code of Criminal Procedure states that "when a judicial police official deems an offense has been committed, he shall investigate the offender and evidence thereof." Accordingly, the police are empowered to investigate not only penal code offenses but also all illegal acts punishable under Japan's judicial system. Most cases are investigated by the police and referred to the public prosecutor's office for prosecution. While public prosecutors are also empowered to conduct investigations, their investigations are generally supplementary. The primary duty of the public prosecutor is to determine case dispositions and prosecute suspects.

In addition to criminal investigations, the police perform a wide range of administrative activities to maintain public safety and order applying various acts such as the Road Traffic Act and the Anti-Boryokudan Act.

The police also maintain close contact with local communities to: prevent crimes; handle lost and found articles; give guidance to juveniles; help people in times of disaster; provide care for lost children and runaways; and, offer counseling services to help citizens solve their problems.

The National Police Agency was established in 1954 and the present police system was formed. The NPA, as a national agency, formulates police systems and also conducts police operations regarding cases involving national public safety, undertakes the administration of matters which form the foundation of police activities such as police education and training, police communications, criminal identification as well as the development of police administration.

As for counter-terrorism, NPA, in cooperation with other relevant departments and agencies, strongly promotes counter-terrorism measures including gathering and analyzing of terrorism related information.
